Arkansas Banking Industry Response to Coronavirus

LITTLE ROCK, AR — Nothing is more important to Arkansas banks than the safety and health of their employees and customers, and they are actively taking prudent steps to respond to this difficult situation. The banks in Arkansas are well capitalized and will remain safe, sound, and important contributors to their communities and the state's economy. The Arkansas Bankers Association is also working in partnership with our members to provide resources that will allow banks to continue operating efficiently and effectively.

Arkansas banks are committed to continuing excellent customer service and support and urge customers with special circumstances to work with your local banker to best meet your needs. Banks routinely and systematically prepare for emergencies so that customers' funds remain protected, accessible, and will remain the safest place for your money.

The Arkansas Bankers Association was established in 1891. It is the state's largest and oldest banking industry organization and represents banks, bank holding companies, and savings & loans in Arkansas. The ABA provides a variety of member services, including educational programs, products and services, publications and a comprehensive government relations program.
